

CENTENARY COLLEGE

SHREVEPORT, LOUISIANA

President's Report

1 9 9 4 - 9 5

resident's Report 1994-1995

Fall, 1995

Dear Friends of the College,

Each year in the Centenary Experience is a unique one, full of growth, successes, disappointments, and challenges. There hardly seems time to review the past year before we are caught in the excitement of the fall academic season and the beginnings that come with it. Please reflect with me upon academic year 1994-95, and its place in the College's 170-year history.

In this report you will find details of innovative new programs and successful older ones. You will be reminded of the College's high national rankings and of its national leadership in prototypical activities. You will discover evidence of our commitment to academic excellence, diversity, and service. The honors and awards listed herein offer but a glimpse of a campus community recognized for outstanding faculty members and motivated, high-achieving students.

You will also find an accounting of current funds, revenues, and expenditures for 1994-95, along with charts reflecting the percentages allocated to each area. Please note that income from tuition and fees accounts for only 47% of the budget. The remaining costs of a student's Centenary education are covered through the generosity of our supporters (41% last year), along with income from auxiliary enterprises, sponsored programs, and other sources.

The honor roll of donors comprises the balance of this report: alumni, parents and friends of the College whose commitment enables us to enhance and enrich academic programs, provide scholarships, add new technologies, and support a wide range of offerings from the library to programs in music, theater, art, athletics, and many others.

Only through the continued generosity of the friends listed in these pages, as in the years preceding, has Centenary been able to attain its present standing. For example, we have added 16 endowed chairs since 1972. In the past two years alone, five Eminent Scholars Chairs have been funded, with Centenary donors providing $600,000 for each and the State of Louisiana matching each with $400,000. Gifts such as these enable the College to endow, in perpetuity, support for those outstanding faculty members who help provide the most important aspect of the Centenary Experience.

One of my greatest pleasures as president is hearing from alumni about their own special Centenary Experiences. Three recent letters come to mind. One was a copy of a letter written more than 20 years after the fact from a graduate who wanted to thank the donor who provided her with a full-tuition scholarship to Centenary.

The 1975 graduate wrote on August 5, 1995: "As the years have passed, my respect for the value of my Centenary education has increased. I realize how well I was schooled, and the creative advantage the liberal arts education has given me in the work place and the community." She reported that she is now pursuing a Master of Business Administration degree and is "...reminded every day of the advantage my Centenary education gave me. I have a much broader world view than the majority of my fellow students, and have better writing, thinking, problem-solving and

"I've ended up doing things I never thought I could do," said theater major Brooks Ann Camper while posing for this photo for the Centenary Viewbook.

Portraits Hung

Two portrait-hanging ceremonies were among the year's special events.

SELECTED EVENTS, ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF THE YEAR

1994 - 95

The 1994-95 academic year at Centenary College of Louisiana was filled with individual triumphs and challenges as well as institutional accomplishments and progress. Space prevents a full listing of the year's events but a sampling of the highlights follows.

■ HIGH NATIONAL RANKINGS – AGAIN.

- In its highest ranking by U.S. News & World Report in the annual Guide to America's Best Colleges, Centenary was ranked fifth among 500 regional colleges and universities in the South.
- Money Magazine, in its annual Money Guide, ranked Centenary 42nd in value among the nation's 100 best colleges and universities, which were chosen from over 3,000 American colleges and universities. The magazine ranked Centenary 14th among the top 25 best college buys in the Southeast and 12th among the 20 best small liberal arts schools in the nation.
- The College was also selected for inclusion in The Princeton Review's 1995 edition of The Student Access Guide to the Best 306 Colleges and the 1995 edition of Barron's Best Buys in College Education.

■ LONGTIME BOARD OFFICERS RETIRE. NEW SLATE ELECTED.

- The College honored two longtime officers of the Board of Trustees, who announced their retirements: George D. Nelson, who had served as chairman since 1965 and a board member since 1957, and J. Hugh Watson, who had been vice chairman since 1972 and a board member since 1967. Both will remain on the board.
- Elected chairman was Roy S. Hurley. Other new officers included William G. Anderson, vice chairman; Charles Ellis Brown, vice chairman for finance; Taylor F. Moore, secretary; and Edward J. Crawford III, treasurer.
- New members named to the board were Leonard M. Riggs Jr. of Dallas, Texas, and Andrew M. Shehee of Shreveport.

■ HONORARY DEGREE.

The College awarded the honorary Doctor of Laws degree to former U.S. Rep. Lindy Boggs of New Orleans. The Honorable Mrs. Boggs was commencement speaker.

■ ENDOWED CHAIRS, PROFESSORSHIPS

Hancock, who was named to the Arthur and Emily Webb Chair of International Studies, and Dr. Thomas Ticich, who was named to the Mattie Allen Broyles Inaugural-Year Research Chair.
- Funding was also completed for two other new million-dollar Eminent Scholars Chairs: the A. Harvey Broyles Chair of Computational Science and the Rudy and Jeannie Linco Chair of Business Administration.
- Timber valued at $342,000 was donated by the James family of Ruston in memory of G.W. and Sarah Bond James toward funding for an additional Eminent Scholars Chair.
- A Woolf Foundation grant for $67,000 was awarded toward the Woolf Chair of Geology, bringing the balance of the chair to over $900,000.
- Gifts of $60,000 for the John B. and Minnie Sue EntriKin Professorship were announced and were submitted to the State of Louisiana for matching funds to create a $100,000 Endowed Professorship.

■ THINK TANKS TO EXPLORE NEW IDEAS.

- Centenary was selected as one of only 26 colleges and universities nationwide to participate in a project designed to promote large-scale campus change. The chosen institutions were announced in Washington, D.C. by the American Council on Education, project sponsor. The four-year "Leadership and Institutional Transformation Project" aims to help colleges and universities cope with the major changes facing American higher education and rethink the basic assumptions and processes that constitute "business as usual." Centenary was chosen from among 110 applicants for the project which is being conducted under a $1.2 million grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Michigan.
- The College was selected as a member of the American Association for the Advancement of the Core Curriculum and for participation in the Pew Charitable Trusts Higher Education Roundtable.

■ NATIONALLY FEATURED PROFESSORS, PROGRAMS.

Centenary professors and programs continued to be featured by national news media, including such publications as The New York Times, USA Today, The Chronicle of Higher Education, Chicago Tribune, Houston Post, Albuquerque Journal, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, New Orleans Times Picayune, Pittsburg Post-Gazette, Gainesville Sun, Dallas Morning News, Orange County Register, and many more. ■ COMPUTERIZATION PUTS CAMPUS ON THE INFORMATION SUPERHIGHWAY.

The first phase of a fiber-optic network was installed along with a computer laboratory in Jackson Hall and computer clusters in each residence hall funded by a grant from the Louisiana Board of Regents. These allowed new ways of teaching traditional subjects and brought the information superhighway to students, faculty and staff. A grant from the Union Pacific Foundation was awarded to begin computerization of Rotary Hall.

■ SHAKESPEARE COMES TO THE SHELL.

A new program which brought professional actors from New York City for outdoor Shakespearian plays debuted at Centenary in the summer of 1995. PRESIDENT'S LETTER (continued from Page 1)

research skills because of my 20-year-old Centenary experience.”

The second letter came from a student who graduated, along with his wife, in 1968. He characterized their Centenary Experience as a defining moment in their lives.

“What I found at Centenary was a warm and welcoming student body, a gracious environment, and a faculty who actively reached out to students. These faculty, who became my own professional role models, taught far more than just the contents of their courses,” he wrote. After listing the names of several former and current faculty members, he said “...all taught the love of learning as an integral part of their classes. What I learned from them about teaching and about mentoring students is the foundation of my own teaching philosophy.”

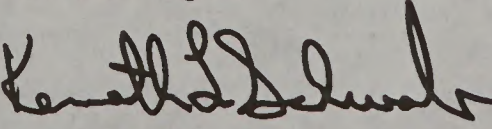

For this alumnus, the lessons he learned from Centenary were: “Enjoy and respect your students, treating them as individuals. Know your subject and teach it clearly, patiently and invitingly. Demand and reward excellence. Inspire a love of learning.” We will continually seek to meet these challenges.

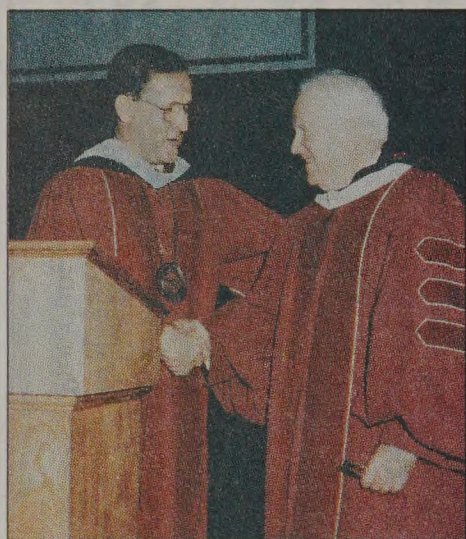

The third letter, written in April, came from a 1982 graduate who represented Centenary at the inauguration of Emory University's President William Chase. “I was proud to take the 46th position in a procession led by Oxford and Cambridge, as representative of one of the oldest liberal arts institutions represented,” she wrote.

She reported that two noteworthy themes especially struck a Centenary chord with her. One was a speaker's definition of faculty as “those who think otherwise” and thus make a difference. “This is the kind of faculty I knew and the kind of thinking I learned at Centenary — the kind of thinking that makes a difference.”

She also noted that a central recurring theme was a re-calling of the faculty “back to the business of teaching,” thus reminding faculty, staff and students alike of the primary purpose of the university's being: to teach and provide a fruitful context for learning. “I was reminded with gratitude that this is a purpose to which Centenary has steadfastly held.” And, it is a purpose to which we shall always hold.

This annual report salutes and thanks all whose efforts and support have combined to educate students, to alter lives and to benefit our society through the transforming experience that is Centenary College. It is through your support that the Centenary Experience becomes possible and becomes true. Thank you.

With warm regards,

Kenneth L. Schwab
President

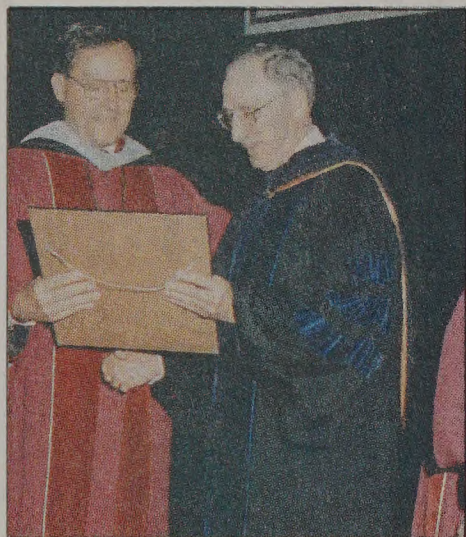

Commencement '95 Marks End of Era

Two retire after a total of 53 years in office:

- George D. Nelson, Chairman of the Board for 30 years
- J. Hugh Watson, Vice Chairman for 23 years.

During the 1995 commencement ceremonies on May 6, 1995, Centenary President Kenneth L. Schwab thanks two distinguished officers of the Board of Trustees for their decades of leadership.

(Top left) George D. Nelson, who had served as Chairman of the Board since 1965, participates in his 30th and final commencement as chairman. On May 5, Shreveport Mayor Bo Williams declared George D. Nelson Day in Shreveport in honor of his long and distinguished service for Centenary College and the community.

(Bottom left) J. Hugh Watson receives a framed citation in honor of his 23 years as vice chairman. Both will continue to serve on the board.
